HOME TO MOTHER

MARTIN SHULTZ, 17, READY TO BEGIN LIFE AGAIN.

SHERIFF PAYS COSTS

Boy Runs Away From Home, Gets Into Trouble, Finds Friends And Obtains Freedom.

Martin Shultz, 17 years old, was in the county jail this time yesterday awaiting trial on the charge of assaulting a fellow workman. Today he is on his way home to his mother, freed of the charge and ready to begin life again on the little farm from which he came.

Martin lived with his mother in Burks, S. D., on a homestead where the work was hard and money was scarce. He fell in with a young man who had been to Missouri, and who told of the chances to earn money on the farms there. At his companion's suggestion he ran away and came to the R. I. Bilby farm, west of Quitman to work. He was satisfied and wrote the little mother at home of his whereabouts.

Soon trouble came upon him. An older man at the ranch took delight in teasing and abusing the boy, and whipped him several times. The boy stood all he could and one day after the unkindness and nagging of the fellow had grown too hard to bear, Martin pitched in and whipped his tormentor.

Next scene. A warrant for his arrest, the sheriff and a place in the county jail where he must await his trial. It came yesterday, and he pleaded guilty.

Judge Dawson with all the spectators saw that the boy told a straightforward story, and reports of his previous conduct at the ranch were good. The result was: A fine of $1 and costs, the whole amount being $15.50.

But where to get the money. The boy hadn't a cent. Then Sheriff J. F. Dowden came forward and believing in the boy's innocence, offered to pay the fine and costs, so that the boy might go free. Sheriff Dowden also gave the boy $10 for traveling expenses and he left on last night's train for the homestead where his mother, unaware of her son's plight is awaiting him.

Martin's uncle, W. L. Gilbert of Burks, S. D., to whom Martin wrote for assistance arrived in Maryville today and settled the costs.

HACKMANN IS OUT ON BAIL

New Republican State Auditor Charged With Perjury Gives $1,800 Bond to Appear for Trial April 1.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Jan. 16.—George E. Hackmann, the new Republican state auditor, charged with perjury and misappropriation of funds by a grand jury in Warren county, returned to Jefferson City yesterday and resumed his duties here. He stated that he is absolutely innocent of the charges against him and that he hopes the people of the state will not form an opinion prejudicial to him. In Warrenton he gave bond for $1,800 to appear for trial the first week in April.

The two indictments refer to Hackmann's acts as county clerk of Warren county, a post held when he was elected state auditor at the last election.

Hackmann is a Republican, as are all the county officials. The county is about 3 to 1 Republican.

The principal charges against Hackmann in the two indictments returned against him by the Warren county grand jury are that, as county clerk, he swore to items of deputy and assistant hire in 1916 which were greater by $296.50 than the amounts he actually spent for hire of his deputy and assistant; and that he retained the same sum, $296.50, which should have been paid into the county treasury.

The first indictment has five counts charging perjury and five counts charging false affidavits. These two sets of counts are duplicates, the first five and the second five relating to the same transactions. The second indictment charges fraud in office, and has one count. It relates to the same transactions as the first indictment. Hackmann is the only Republican state official.

The county clerk's salary is $1,250 a year, and he is permitted to employ a deputy and assistant as they are needed.

WALLACE LECTURES

NOTED SHAKESPEAREAN AUTHORITY TELLS OF DISCOVERIES

WILL CHANGE HISTORY

Facts Unearthed by Dr. Wallace Will Cause Revision of Data of Elizabethan Period.

Dr. Charles William Wallace addressed a large crowd of Normal students, club women, school children, teachers, and town-people on the recent discoveries concerning Shakespeare that were made by Doctor Wallace and Mrs. Wallace during the fifteen years of study in England. The lecture was given this morning in the Normal auditorium.

During the years that he spent in England, Doctor Wallace said that he had examined thousands and thousands of documents, and among these he had found thirty that dealt directly with the plays of Shakespeare and with the theatres of the time.

"In spite of the fact that the scholars of Shakespeare had considered the field of research connected with the Elizabethan period practically exhausted," said Doctor Wallace, "these documents prove that there are many things to be learned and many errors to be corrected in the writings of the previous authorities on Shakespeare." "How long it will be before these corrections are made will depend entirely on American effort."

"I am proud to feel that the Americans are leading in this great work of research, and that the west, the state of Missouri and Nodaway county have had their share in bringing to light facts that will change the history of the Shakespearean era."

Dr. Wallace showed a number of lantern slides which gave the audience an idea of the size of the building where the English public documents were kept, and also a view of a number of these documents, some looking as fresh and new as the day they had been put in the archives, others looking frayed and time-worn.

Among the important discoveries made by Doctor Wallace in the parchment which he and Mrs. Wallace so patiently translated were the finding of the exact location of the Globe Theatre, where the plays of Shakespeare were given and in which the playwright was part owner; the establishment of the fact that the theatres of Shakespeare's time were luxuriously furnished and not uncomfortable and poorly kept as authorities of former days believed; that Shakespeare was not a rich man, but had an income of about $1,200 to $1,600 a year from his theatre and his plays.

Regarding the enjoyment which he got out of his work, Doctor Wallace said, "I feel that I know Shakespeare and his associates better through the thousands of documents that I have examined, thus acquainting myself with the intimate facts of their lives. As for the common fallacy that Shakespeare never revealed himself in his plays, I have found that to be utterly without foundation. I think that every one of his plays contains a revelation of the high ideals which he and his associates in the theatre held and without which the plays would not have become famous.

"In the theatre Shakespeare's influence has never ceased and never will cease. His inspiration is just as vital today as it was when it brought about the building of the theatre of the Restoration in 1660."

FINANCIERS CALLED IN 'LEAK' INQUIRY

J. P. MORGAN AND OTHERS WILL TELL WHAT THEY KNOW.

VERBAL CLASHES ADD TO GENERAL INTEREST

Lawson Declares That on Their Two Statements, Either He or Henry Is A Perjurer.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The summoning to Washington of a group of the nation's most powerful financiers, headed by J. P. Morgan and F. A. Vanderlip to shed any possible light they may have of how advance news of Wilson's peace note reached Wall street, was the big development at today's session of the "leak" investigation. H. P. Davidson, Sol Wexler and Arthur Lipper were summoned. It indicates the committee's determination to probe every possible phase of the leak.

Verbal clashes between Chairman Henry and Thomas W. Lawson enlivened the hearing continually. Sharp differences developed when Lawson declared that on their two statements, either he or Chairman Henry was a perjurer and that the committee had no higher duty than to discover which one was guilty. Lawson added to his sensational charges of yesterday.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Thomas Lawson was back on the stand as soon as the rules committee reconvened this morning. Representative Campbell of Kansas proceeded to question him. There was a mad rush for seats.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Thomas W. Lawson, haled before the house rules committee to tell what he knew or had heard about a stock market leak on President Wilson's peace note or be punished, calmly declared yesterday that the mysterious congressman who told him a cabinet officer, a senator, and a banker were engaged in a stock gambling pool, was none other than Representative Henry, chairman of the committee.

Then before his hearers had time to recover from the shock, Lawson sprung one sensation after the other by declaring that the cabinet officer referred to was Secretary McAdoo; that the banker was H. Pliney Fiske, of New York, and that he knew the senator only by initial "O."

Lawson also charged that Paul M. Warburg of the federal reserve board had knowledge of the leak; repeated a rumor that Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, had made two millions in the stock market, and mentioned a list of well known men whom he thought should be questioned. The committee promptly issued subpoenas for all of them.

Lawson said he had been told that Malcolm McAdoo, the secretary's brother, knew of the leak, as did C. D. Barney & Company, and Stewart G. Gibboney of New York. A Mrs. Ruth Thomason Visconti of this city, he said, had declared to him in the presence of her attorney that Secretary Tumulty "received his bit," and that W. W. Price, one of the White House correspondents was "the go-between for Tumulty and others." H. Pliney Fiske, Lawson said, was the banker he referred to previously as dominating a cabinet officer and Archibald S. White, he said, had given him this information.

When Lawson had concluded, Chairman Henry took the stand and swore that at no time had he mentioned to Lawson the names the financier brought out on the witness stand, that he had no information then and had none now of his own knowledge, and denied generally and completely all of Lawson's testimony relating to him.

FARMS NEED LIME

ITS USE TO SWEETEN SOUR SOIL WILL SOON BE PREVALENT.:

ACIDITY INJURES CROPS

Failure of Important Cereal and Forage Crops Due to This Cause—Other Lime in It.

The use of ground limestone or some form of lime to sweeten sour soil will soon become a regular farm practice in many parts of Missouri. The reasons for this practice were given by R. A. Kinnaird of the College of Agriculture in a recent lecture during Farmers' Week at the University. Soils which were originally poorly supplied with lime and even limestone soils have lost so much of the lime which they formerly contained that crops suffer from soil acidity. The continuous leaching to which soils in the humid regions are subjected and which is greatly increased by cultivation is largely responsible for this loss of lime. The greatest soil acidity, therefore, is in those soils which were originally poorly supplied with lime and especially in regions where the land has been cultivated a long time with little attention to soil fertility.

Practically all the soils of the prairie region of northeast Missouri are quite sour. In the northwestern part of the state there is much less acidity. In the Ozark region soils derived from limestone have been leached until they have become very acid. The regions known as the post oak flats are the worst in this respect. There are also soils in the Missouri and Mississippi River bottoms that are sour.

Not all crops are injured by an acid soil, but unfortunately most important cereals and forage crops, especially clovers and alfalfa, cannot be grown successfully on a very acid soil. Acidity is indicated by the failure of these crops and by luxuriant growth of red sorrel, Canada blue grass and water grass.

To sweeten an acid soil, a sufficient amount of finely ground limestone or slaked lime must be scattered evenly over the plowed ground, and worked into the top soil. Ground limestone is usually the cheapest and most satisfactory in general, though it takes effect more slowly than quick lime, slaked lime or hydrated lime, and a larger quantity must be applied to get the same results. The screenings from an ordinary rock crusher can be used. Coarser material has little immediate effect in the soil, but if a much larger quantity of the coarser material is used it will keep the soil sweet for a longer time. Screenings can be obtained at from twenty-five cents to one dollar a ton. In some cases where hauling from the railroad is expensive and where limestone is accessible, small grinders can be used to grind the limestone on the farm.

Persons interested in the use of limestone on acid soils should write to the College of Agriculture, Columbia, Missouri, for more detailed information.

SHOES AFFECT THE HEALTH

Miss Ethel Ronzone of the University of Missouri Says that Normal Posture of the Foot is Flat.

"The heel of the shoe, the heighth, the material from which it is made—all tend more or less to affect the physical well-being of a person," Miss Ethel Ronzone of the department of home economics of the University of Missouri says.

"The normal posture of the foot is flat, with more weight on the heel," Miss Ronzone declares, in speaking of the effect of high heels upon the nervous system. "This is as it should be, as the muscles and the bones of the heel are constructed for weight. The forepart of the foot should be used for springing, but when the heel is raised, the weight is thrown to the front causing strain. Rubber heels lessen this jar to some extent."

LIFE RACE WITH WOLVES.

Three Trappers Tell of Their Experiences With Pack.

Standish, Mich. — Three trappers, Charles Leonard, George Weston and Bert Parker, reached here the other day from a hunting trip in the Lake Superior region and told of a race for their lives with a wolf pack while returning from their traps. The men were on skates three miles from the nearest cabin when the wolves made their appearance.

One of the trappers fired his rifle when the pack approached them, and the wolves quickly tore one of their wounded members to pieces, giving the hunters time for a start to get ahead of the brutes.

Several times when the wolves were nearly on them this was repeated, the men said, until they finally reached the cabin.

BEES WILL HELP

TINY INSECTS GREAT AID IN THE MAKING OF FRUIT CROPS.

NEED CROSS-POLLINATION

Weather Conditions During Fruit Bloom Have Much to Do With The Setting of Fruit.

Did you have a full apple crop last year? Failure of some varieties of apples may be due to lack of pollination. T. J. Talbert, of the College of Agriculture, told Farmers' Week visitors at the University of Missouri recently how bees helped to make a fruit crop.

Many varieties of apples like Arkansas Black, Jonathan and York Imperial are self sterile and cross pollination is absolutely essential if a set of fruit is obtained. Other varieties like Ben Davis, Yellow Transparent and Willow Twig are only partly self-fertile and again cross-pollination is necessary.

The numerous white showy flower clusters act as a guide to the insects and may attract them far away. When a bee alights on a flower its hairy body may be covered with pollen from another variety of apple. As the bee works its way down to the bottom of the flower to get the nectar it rubs its dusty body against the stigma or female organ of the flower and cross-pollination is accomplished.

It is a well known fact among the best fruit growers that the weather conditions during fruit bloom has much to do with the setting of the fruit. If the weather is clear and warm at blooming time the bees are active and cross-pollination proceeds rapidly, while if the weather conditions are wet, cloudy and cold the insects are not active and usually a poor set of fruit is secured. Strong cold winds may often prevent the bees from cross-pollinating one side of the apple trees and this may account for the set of fruit on only one side of the trees.

Actual counts and observations at blooming time have shown that the honey bee is decidedly the most important insect in the work of pollinating the fruit flowers. Many counts have shown that from seventy-five to ninety per cent of the insects pollinating the blossoms were honey bees.

The wind cannot be relied upon as an agency to transfer pollen from apple tree to apple tree throughout the orchard. This work must be accomplished by insects, and the honey bee is by odds the most important of them all.

Bees will pay for their keep in honey, aside from their services in fruit production.

THE MODERN JOAN OF ARC

Ye Feminino Is Rapidly Outstripping Her Masculine Rivals in Military Affairs.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 16.—Ye feminino is rapidly outstripping her masculine rivals in military affairs, as a postmistress, like Joan of Arc, leads in the lure of the fighting man. In the activities of the postmaster campaign for recruits for the United States Marine Corps, the first person to receive the $5.00 reward for the securing of a recruit for the "Soldiers of the Sea" was a woman, Miss Mary Rudihil, handler of the mails in Forsyth, Ga., who enlisted Richard Lewis Ponder of that place, according to First Sergeant Ernest H. Galway, of the local Marine Corps recruiting station.

"There may be nothing in a name," mused Galway, "but he was the first, and that makes one ponder."

Mrs. George Baker left last night for Evanston, Ill., where she will visit her daughter, Miss Carrie Margaret Baker, who is attending school there.

Mrs. Eva Davis and son, Donald, of Bolckow came to Maryville last night to visit at the home of Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Alkire.

Picture at Empire Tonight Shows Action in Dangerous Play.

Charles Richman, Vitagraph leading man, had the most thrilling experience of his career recently while acting in that company's latest release, "The Hero of Submarine D-2." Richman is the hero, an din order to justify his claim to that distinction is shot through a torpedo tube from a submerged submarine, rises to the surface boards a merchant ship and explodes mines prematurely that would have blown to pieces the entire Atlantic fleet.

An attempt was made to fake that part of the script, but believing in absolute realism in art, Richman insisted in carrying out the scene to the letter.

D-2, which is one of the smaller submarines of the navy under command of Lieutenant P. K. Robottom, was submerged to a distance of five feet so as to insure Richman's coming to the surface and to prevent any mishap through the pressure of the water at a greater depth. Richman crept into the torpedo tube and immediately the door was closed and the spring released which shot him out into the waters of Newport harbor. Although he is an adept swimmer, he did not figure on the coldness of the water and nearly forgot to keep rigid. Any relaxation on his part might have sprained his back in some way, but he held himself tense and shot through the water at great speed for a distance of at least 40 feet. By slanting his hands upward, Richman came to the surface, being under water but the short space of three seconds.

Kansas City Stock Letter.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Jan. 16.—Light cattle receipts after Tuesday last week advanced prices 10 to 12 cents, and the supply of 14,000 today sold steady to strong, stockers and feeders 10c higher. Hogs finished last week as good as the best time, and sold firm today, top $10.80, receipts 17,000. Sheep and lambs advanced 30 to 50 cents last week, and 10 to 15 cents today, lambs $13.75, ewes $9.85, both new high records, receipts 12,000.

Beef Cattle.

Nothing strictly prime was offered, the best here selling at $10.85. Pulp fed steers weighing 1,298 pounds brought $10.40, medium to common beef steers down to $8.00; some good quarantine steers $9.00; the latter sale highest made in the Quarantine division in January. The tendency seems to be for the lower grades of steers to creep upwards, upper grades holding steady, which closes up the range of prices. However, nothing strictly prime has been offered for two weeks, last here selling at $11.50. Cows of the ripe kind sell up to $9.00, heifers $11.00, canner cows $5.25 to $6.00, bulls $6.25 to $8.00, odd head last week up to $9.00, veal calves up to $11.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

There is a good country demand, especially for cattle to go right into feed lots. Feeders were taken out last week at $7.50 to $10.50, weights from 850 to 1,200 pounds. Inquiry for stock cattle was less keen, but covered a wide territory, a good string going to South Dakota, others to Nebraska and states east as well as the adjacent states. Stock steers range from $6.50 to $8.50, a few either way. A rather large proportion of the receipts today was stockers and feeders, but they sold 10c higher.

Hogs.

Heavy hogs sold up to $10.80 today, medium weights $10.75, lights $10.55, bulk of sales $10.30 to $10.75. The market closed at the best point, although receipts overran the estimate of 13,000 by four thousand head. Packers' actions denote that they need hogs although statements of stocks on hand at packing houses show heavier than at this time a year ago. Of course, these statements do not tell how much of these stocks is already contracted. Chicago had a heavy run today, but otherwise receipts at the markets were moderate, and seem inclined to run a little under a year ago at this time.

Sheep and Lambs.

The good advance made in the sheep house last week was followed by further gains today, 10 to 15 cents, possibly more on ewes, two cars of 101 lb. pea fed ewes selling at $9.80 and odd head from local territory at $9.85, new high prices here. Lambs also set a new high record for all previous time here today at $13.75. Receipts have been running fairly liberal, but packers have not had enough, and the market shows no signs of weakening. Fat yearlings sell at $12.00 or better, wethers $10.50, feeding lambs around $12.75.

TEACHING INDIANS IS THIS WOMAN'S HOBBY

Mrs. Molineux Declares Red Man Can Be Led, but Will Not Be Driven.

Salt Lake City.—To have mothered one or possibly two tiny lives through the strenuous days of early infancy is a task that most women consider plenty, but Mrs. Elizabeth Molineux, until recently a teacher in the United States Indian service, has the distinction of having mothered a whole tribe of Piute Indians, and claims the satisfaction of having raised them, old and young, from a condition bordering on the squalid state where they consider cleanliness next to godliness and, one and all, are heartily in favor of both.

Mrs. Molineux recently resigned her post as teacher on the Shivwits reservation in southern Utah and is in Salt Lake resting preparatory to going to Ketchikan, Alaska, to take charge of the Episcopal church's mission school there. She is a guest at the home of the Right Rev. Paul Jones, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Utah, while here.

Indians have become a hobby with this diminutive little Scotchwoman. She speaks their languages and in her eight years of service with the Indian department has been intimately associated with the trials and tribulations that beset poor Lo on his native heath. Mrs. Molineux is an ardent churchwoman and attributes her success in dealing with Indians to the fact that by blending religious teachings with the "three R's" she has dismissed distrust of her from the minds of her charges and has always been regarded by them more in the light of a friend than a teacher. She declared the Indian mind to be susceptible to teaching if properly approached, but adds that he can be led but will not be driven.

CHASING A COYOTE IN AUTO EXCITING SPORT

Hound, Sighting Game, Leaps Over Mud Shield and Lands Twenty Feet Ahead of Car.

Larned, Kan.—An exciting coyote chase in automobiles took place near Hanston. The party consisted of Bill Hann, John Hann, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Seaman and William Warring. They went in two cars and took three greyhounds in each car.

Mr. Warring says that auto polo is mild compared with the way those two cars chased across the prairie, ravines and bluffs after coyotes. He said that his speedometer registered forty miles one time when he dared to glance at it, and he was afraid to look again.

They were going along between twenty and thirty miles an hour at the time they started up the first coyote, and when the biggest hound in Mr. Warring's car sighted the wolf it leaped over the wind shield and hood and landed running twenty feet ahead of the car. The coyote was a big fellow, but the hounds finally brought him down, the big hound throwing him, while the others pinned him down.

While chasing the first coyote the other auto nearly ran over another one, which leaped up almost from under the wheels of the car. The men shot at it several times, wounding it, but because of the speed of the bounding car could get but poor aim. It finally ran into a hole and was fished out with a wire. Messrs. Hann and Seaman have killed many coyotes.

WIRELESS PLANT IN BED.

Annapolis Middie Receives Messages Through Springs.

Annapolis, Md.—That a series of bedsprings connected by wires makes a satisfactory condenser for a wireless station has been proved by Midshipman J. B. Dow of the fourth class at the Naval academy.

Dow has connected the springs of his own and his two roommates' beds and attached them to a receiver. He has been able to pick up messages sent from and to the Arlington station. He has found out that it is not necessary to open the windows of his room in Bancroft hall or even to remove the bedding.

It is stated that Dow's use of the bedsprings to receive radio messages may be of considerable practical value.

Waits Fifty Years For Father's Gift.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—It cost fifty years of waiting and a lawsuit against his stepmother, but John W. Baker of New Bloomfield recently received $525, turned over to his mother by his father in 1867. It was to be his on his father's death, but Mrs. Rebecca T. Baker, stepmother and administratrix, had withheld payment.

GIRL SUES DRUGGIST FOR LOSS OF HER HAIR

New York.—The efficacy of peroxide as a hair bleach was brought into question when Katie Gottdank, sixteen years old, asked $5,000 damages from Julius Kallsh, incorporated, druggist. In trying to transform herself into a blond she lost part of her hair, and what she had left became brick red. She exhibited a shoe box full of hair. Miss Gottdank's grandfather, Carl Weisshar, a barber, was not allowed to qualify as an expert.

HOME TO MOTHER

MARTIN SHULTZ, 17, READY TO BEGIN LIFE AGAIN.

SHERIFF PAYS COSTS

Boy Runs Away From Home, Gets Into Trouble, Finds Friends And Obtains Freedom.

Martin Shultz, 17 years old, was in the county jail this time yesterday awaiting trial on the charge of assaulting a fellow workman. Today he is on his way home to his mother, freed of the charge and ready to begin life again on the little farm from which he came.

Martin lived with his mother in Burks, S. D., on a homestead where the work was hard and money was scarce. He fell in with a young man who had been to Missouri, and who told of the chances to earn money on the farms there. At his companion's suggestion he ran away and came to the R. I. Bilby farm, west of Quitman to work. He was satisfied and wrote the little mother at home of his whereabouts.

Soon trouble came upon him. An older man at the ranch took delight in teasing and abusing the boy, and whipped him several times. The boy stood all he could and one day after the unkindness and nagging of the fellow had grown too hard to bear, Martin pitched in and whipped his tormentor.

Next scene. A warrant for his arrest, the sheriff and a place in the county jail where he must await his trial. It came yesterday, and he pleaded guilty.

Judge Dawson with all the spectators saw that the boy told a straightforward story, and reports of his previous conduct at the ranch were good. The result was: A fine of $1 and costs, the whole amount being $15.50.

But where to get the money. The boy hadn't a cent. Then Sheriff J. F. Dowden came forward and believing in the boy's innocence, offered to pay the fine and costs, so that the boy might go free. Sheriff Dowden also gave the boy $10 for traveling expenses and he left on last night's train for the homestead where his mother, unaware of her son's plight is awaiting him.

Martin's uncle, W. L. Gilbert of Burks, S. D., to whom Martin wrote for assistance arrived in Maryville today and settled the costs.

HACKMANN IS OUT ON BAIL

New Republican State Auditor Charged With Perjury Gives $1,800 Bond to Appear for Trial April 1.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Jan. 16.—George E. Hackmann, the new Republican state auditor, charged with perjury and misappropriation of funds by a grand jury in Warren county, returned to Jefferson City yesterday and resumed his duties here. He stated that he is absolutely innocent of the charges against him and that he hopes the people of the state will not form an opinion prejudicial to him. In Warrenton he gave bond for $1,800 to appear for trial the first week in April.

The two indictments refer to Hackmann's acts as county clerk of Warren county, a post held when he was elected state auditor at the last election.

Hackmann is a Republican, as are all the county officials. The county is about 3 to 1 Republican.

The principal charges against Hackmann in the two indictments returned against him by the Warren county grand jury are that, as county clerk, he swore to items of deputy and assistant hire in 1916 which were greater by $296.50 than the amounts he actually spent for hire of his deputy and assistant; and that he retained the same sum, $296.50, which should have been paid into the county treasury.

The first indictment has five counts charging perjury and five counts charging false affidavits. These two sets of counts are duplicates, the first five and the second five relating to the same transactions. The second indictment charges fraud in office, and has one count. It relates to the same transactions as the first indictment. Hackmann is the only Republican state official.

The county clerk's salary is $1,250 a year, and he is permitted to employ a deputy and assistant as they are needed.

WALLACE LECTURES

NOTED SHAKESPEAREAN AUTHORITY TELLS OF DISCOVERIES

WILL CHANGE HISTORY

Facts Unearthed by Dr. Wallace Will Cause Revision of Data of Elizabethan Period.

Dr. Charles William Wallace addressed a large crowd of Normal students, club women, school children, teachers, and town-people on the recent discoveries concerning Shakespeare that were made by Doctor Wallace and Mrs. Wallace during the fifteen years of study in England. The lecture was given this morning in the Normal auditorium.

During the years that he spent in England, Doctor Wallace said that he had examined thousands and thousands of documents, and among these he had found thirty that dealt directly with the plays of Shakespeare and with the theatres of the time.

"In spite of the fact that the scholars of Shakespeare had considered the field of research connected with the Elizabethan period practically exhausted," said Doctor Wallace, "these documents prove that there are many things to be learned and many errors to be corrected in the writings of the previous authorities on Shakespeare." "How long it will be before these corrections are made will depend entirely on American effort."

"I am proud to feel that the Americans are leading in this great work of research, and that the west, the state of Missouri and Nodaway county have had their share in bringing to light facts that will change the history of the Shakespearean era."

Dr. Wallace showed a number of lantern slides which gave the audience an idea of the size of the building where the English public documents were kept, and also a view of a number of these documents, some looking as fresh and new as the day they had been put in the archives, others looking frayed and time-worn.

Among the important discoveries made by Doctor Wallace in the parchment which he and Mrs. Wallace so patiently translated were the finding of the exact location of the Globe Theatre, where the plays of Shakespeare were given and in which the playwright was part owner; the establishment of the fact that the theatres of Shakespeare's time were luxuriously furnished and not uncomfortable and poorly kept as authorities of former days believed; that Shakespeare was not a rich man, but had an income of about $1,200 to $1,600 a year from his theatre and his plays.

Regarding the enjoyment which he got out of his work, Doctor Wallace said, "I feel that I know Shakespeare and his associates better through the thousands of documents that I have examined, thus acquainting myself with the intimate facts of their lives. As for the common fallacy that Shakespeare never revealed himself in his plays, I have found that to be utterly without foundation. I think that every one of his plays contains a revelation of the high ideals which he and his associates in the theatre held and without which the plays would not have become famous.

"In the theatre Shakespeare's influence has never ceased and never will cease. His inspiration is just as vital today as it was when it brought about the building of the theatre of the Restoration in 1660."

FINANCIERS CALLED IN 'LEAK' INQUIRY

J. P. MORGAN AND OTHERS WILL TELL WHAT THEY KNOW.

VERBAL CLASHES ADD TO GENERAL INTEREST

Lawson Declares That on Their Two Statements, Either He or Henry Is A Perjurer.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The summoning to Washington of a group of the nation's most powerful financiers, headed by J. P. Morgan and F. A. Vanderlip to shed any possible light they may have of how advance news of Wilson's peace note reached Wall street, was the big development at today's session of the "leak" investigation. H. P. Davidson, Sol Wexler and Arthur Lipper were summoned. It indicates the committee's determination to probe every possible phase of the leak.

Verbal clashes between Chairman Henry and Thomas W. Lawson enlivened the hearing continually. Sharp differences developed when Lawson declared that on their two statements, either he or Chairman Henry was a perjurer and that the committee had no higher duty than to discover which one was guilty. Lawson added to his sensational charges of yesterday.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Thomas Lawson was back on the stand as soon as the rules committee reconvened this morning. Representative Campbell of Kansas proceeded to question him. There was a mad rush for seats.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Thomas W. Lawson, haled before the house rules committee to tell what he knew or had heard about a stock market leak on President Wilson's peace note or be punished, calmly declared yesterday that the mysterious congressman who told him a cabinet officer, a senator, and a banker were engaged in a stock gambling pool, was none other than Representative Henry, chairman of the committee.

Then before his hearers had time to recover from the shock, Lawson sprung one sensation after the other by declaring that the cabinet officer referred to was Secretary McAdoo; that the banker was H. Pliney Fiske, of New York, and that he knew the senator only by initial "O."

Lawson also charged that Paul M. Warburg of the federal reserve board had knowledge of the leak; repeated a rumor that Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, had made two millions in the stock market, and mentioned a list of well known men whom he thought should be questioned. The committee promptly issued subpoenas for all of them.

Lawson said he had been told that Malcolm McAdoo, the secretary's brother, knew of the leak, as did C. D. Barney & Company, and Stewart G. Gibboney of New York. A Mrs. Ruth Thomason Visconti of this city, he said, had declared to him in the presence of her attorney that Secretary Tumulty "received his bit," and that W. W. Price, one of the White House correspondents was "the go-between for Tumulty and others." H. Pliney Fiske, Lawson said, was the banker he referred to previously as dominating a cabinet officer and Archibald S. White, he said, had given him this information.

When Lawson had concluded, Chairman Henry took the stand and swore that at no time had he mentioned to Lawson the names the financier brought out on the witness stand, that he had no information then and had none now of his own knowledge, and denied generally and completely all of Lawson's testimony relating to him.

THE DEGREE OF ENJOYMENT YOU GET FROM A CUP OF COFFEE DEPENDS AS MUCH UPON THE WAY THE COFFEE IS MADE AS THE GRADE OF COFFEE USED.

FARMS NEED LIME

ITS USE TO SWEETEN SOUR SOIL WILL SOON BE PREVALENT.

ACIDITY INJURES CROPS

Failure of Important Cereal and Forage Crops Due to This Cause—Other Lime in It.

The use of ground limestone or some form of lime to sweeten sour soil will soon become a regular farm practice in many parts of Missouri. The reasons for this practice were given by R. A. Kinnaird of the College of Agriculture in a recent lecture during Farmers' Week at the University. Soils which were originally poorly supplied with lime and even limestone soils have lost so much of the lime which they formerly contained that crops suffer from soil acidity. The continuous leaching to which soils in the humid regions are subjected and which is greatly increased by cultivation is largely responsible for this loss of lime. The greatest soil acidity, therefore, is in those soils which were originally poorly supplied with lime and especially in regions where the land has been cultivated a long time with little attention to soil fertility.

Practically all the soils of the prairie region of northeast Missouri are quite sour. In the northwestern part of the state there is much less acidity. In the Ozark region soils derived from limestone have been leached until they have become very acid. The regions known as the post oak flats are the worst in this respect. There are also soils in the Missouri and Mississippi River bottoms that are sour.

Not all crops are injured by an acid soil, but unfortunately most important cereals and forage crops, especially clovers and alfalfa, cannot be grown successfully on a very acid soil. Acidity is indicated by the failure of these crops and by luxuriant growth of red sorrel. Canada blue grass and water grass.

To sweeten an acid soil, a sufficient amount of finely ground limestone or slaked lime must be scattered evenly over the plowed ground, and worked into the top soil. Ground limestone is usually the cheapest and most satisfactory in general, though it takes effect more slowly than quick lime, slaked lime or hydrated lime, and a larger quantity must be applied to get the same results. The screenings from an ordinary rock crusher can be used. Coarser material has little immediate effect in the soil, but if a much larger quantity of the coarser material is used it will keep the soil sweet for a longer time. Screenings can be obtained at from twenty-five cents to one dollar a ton. In some cases where hauling from the railroad is expensive and where limestone is accessible, small grinders can be used to grind the limestone on the farm.

Persons interested in the use of limestone on acid soils should write to the College of Agriculture, Columbia, Missouri, for more detailed information.

SHOES AFFECT THE HEALTH

Miss Ethel Ronzone of the University of Missouri Says that Normal Posture of the Foot is Flat.

"The heel of the shoe, the heighth, the material from which it is made—all tend more or less to affect the physical well-being of a person," Miss Ethel Ronzone of the department of home economics of the University of Missouri says.

"The normal posture of the foot is flat, with more weight on the heel," Miss Ronzone declares, in speaking of the effect of high heels upon the nervous system. "This is as it should be, as the muscles and the bones of the heel are constructed for weight. The forepart of the foot should be used for springing, but when the heel is raised, the weight is thrown to the front causing strain. Rubber heels lessen this jar to some extent."

John Stundon of Rochester, Minn., arrived in Maryville Saturday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Ralph Moyer.

Miss Emma Ballinger, saleslady at the Graham-Latimer store, is ill at her home this week.

Dr. M. A. Gaugh of Burlington Junction suffered a paralytic stroke this morning at his home.

Mrs. Robert O'Connell of Corning, Ia., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Anna Brant, who is ill at St. Francis hospital.

Dr. James Felix is moving into the Dr. Allen property on West First street.

LIFE RACE WITH WOLVES.

Three Trappers Tell of Their Experiences With Pack.

Standish, Mich. — Three trappers, Charles Leonard, George Weston and Bert Parker, reached here the other day from a hunting trip in the Lake Superior region and told of a race for their lives with a wolf pack while returning from their traps. The men were on skates three miles from the nearest cabin when the wolves made their appearance.

One of the trappers fired his rifle when the pack approached them, and the wolves quickly tore one of their wounded members to pieces, giving the hunters time for a start to get ahead of the brutes.

Several times when the wolves were nearly on them this was repeated, the men said, until they finally reached the cabin.

BEES WILL HELP

TINY INSECTS GREAT AID IN THE MAKING OF FRUIT CROPS.

NEED CROSS-POLLINATION

Weather Conditions During Fruit Bloom Have Much to Do With The Setting of Fruit.

Did you have a full apple crop last year? Failure of some varieties of apples may be due to lack of pollination. T. J. Talbert, of the College of Agriculture, told Farmers' Week visitors at the University of Missouri recently how bees helped to make a fruit crop.

Many varieties of apples like Arkansas Black, Jonathan and York Imperial are self sterile and cross pollination is absolutely essential if a set of fruit is obtained. Other varieties like Ben Davis, Yellow Transparent and Willow Twig are only partly self-fertile and again cross-pollination is necessary.

The numerous white showy flower clusters act as a guide to the insects and may attract them far away. When a bee alights on a flower its hairy body may be covered with pollen from another variety of apple. As the bee works its way down to the bottom of the flower to get the nectar it rubs its dusty body against the stigma or female organ of the flower and cross-pollination is accomplished.

It is a well known fact among the best fruit growers that the weather conditions during fruit bloom has much to do with the setting of the fruit. If the weather is clear and warm at blooming time the bees are active and cross-pollination proceeds rapidly, while if the weather conditions are wet, cloudy and cold the insects are not active and usually a poor set of fruit is secured. Strong cold winds may often prevent the bees from cross-pollinating one side of the apple trees and this may account for the set of fruit on only one side of the trees.

Actual counts and observations at blooming time have shown that the honey bee is decidedly the most important insect in the work of pollinating the fruit flowers. Many counts have shown that from seventy-five to ninety per cent of the insects pollinating the blossoms were honey bees.

The wind cannot be relied upon as an agency to transfer pollen from apple tree to apple tree throughout the orchard. This work must be accomplished by insects, and the honey bee is by odds the most important of them all.

Bees will pay for their keep in honey, aside from their services in fruit production.

THE MODERN JOAN OF ARC

Ye Feminino Is Rapidly Outstripping Her Masculine Rivals in Military Affairs.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 16.—Ye feminino is rapidly outstripping her masculine rivals in military affairs, as a postmistress, like Joan of Arc, leads in the lure of the fighting man. In the activities of the postmaster campaign for recruits for the United States Marine Corps, the first person to receive the $5.00 reward for the securing of a recruit for the "Soldiers of the Sea" was a woman, Miss Mary Rudihil, handler of the mails in Forsyth, Ga., who enlisted Richard Lewis Ponder of that place, according to First Sergeant Ernest H. Galway, of the local Marine Corps recruiting station.

"There may be nothing in a name," mused Galway, "but he was the first, and that makes one ponder."

Mrs. George Baker left last night for Evanston, Ill., where she will visit her daughter, Miss Carrie Margaret Baker, who is attending school there.

Picture at Empire Tonight Shows Action in Dangerous Play.

Charles Richman, Vitagraph leading man, had the most thrilling experience of his career recently while acting in that company's latest release, "The Hero of Submarine D-2." Richman is the hero, an din order to justify his claim to that distinction is shot through a torpedo tube from a submerged submarine, rises to the surface boards a merchant ship and explodes mines prematurely that would have blown to pieces the entire Atlantic fleet.

An attempt was made to fake that part of the script, but believing in absolute realism in art, Richman insisted in carrying out the scene to the letter.

D-2, which is one of the smaller submarines of the navy under command of Lieutenant P. K. Robottom, was submerged to a distance of five feet so as to insure Richman's coming to the surface and to prevent any mishap through the pressure of the water at a greater depth. Richman crept into the torpedo tube and immediately the door was closed and the spring released which shot him out into the waters of Newport harbor. Although he is an adept swimmer, he did not figure on the coldness of the water and nearly forgot to keep rigid. Any relaxation on his part might have sprained his back in some way, but he held himself tense and shot through the water at great speed for a distance of at least 40 feet. By slanting his hands upward, Richman came to the surface, being under water but the short space of three seconds.

Kansas City Stock Letter.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Jan. 16.—Light cattle receipts after Tuesday last week advanced prices 10 to 12 cents, and the supply of 14,000 today sold steady to strong, stockers and feeders 10c higher. Hogs finished last week as good as the best time, and sold firm today, top $10.80, receipts 17,000. Sheep and lambs advanced 30 to 50 cents last week, and 10 to 15 cents today, lambs $13.75, ewes $9.85, both new high records, receipts 12,000.

Beef Cattle.

Nothing strictly prime was offered, the best here selling at $10.85. Pulp fed steers weighing 1,298 pounds brought $10.40, medium to common beef steers down to $8.00; some good quarantine steers $9.00; the latter sale highest made in the Quarantine division in January. The tendency seems to be for the lower grades of steers to creep upwards, upper grades holding steady, which closes up the range of prices. However, nothing strictly prime has been offered for two weeks, last here selling at $11.50. Cows of the ripe kind sell up to $9.00, heifers $11.00, canner cows $5.25 to $6.00, bulls $6.25 to $8.00, odd head last week up to $9.00, veal calves up to $11.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

There is a good country demand, especially for cattle to go right into feed lots. Feeders were taken out last week at $7.50 to $10.50, weights from 850 to 1,200 pounds. Inquiry for stock cattle was less keen, but covered a wide territory, a good string going to South Dakota, others to Nebraska and states east as well as the adjacent states. Stock steers range from $6.50 to $8.50, a few either way. A rather large proportion of the receipts today was stockers and feeders, but they sold 10c higher.

Hogs.

Heavy hogs sold up to $10.80 today, medium weights $10.75, lights $10.55, bulk of sales $10.30 to $10.75. The market closed at the best point, although receipts overran the estimate of 13,000 by four thousand head. Packers' actions denote that they need hogs although statements of stocks on hand at packing houses show heavier than at this time a year ago. Of course, these statements do not tell how much of these stocks is already contracted. Chicago had a heavy run today, but otherwise receipts at the markets were moderate, and seem inclined to run a little under a year ago at this time.

Sheep and Lambs.

The good advance made in the sheep house last week was followed by further gains today, 10 to 15 cents, possibly more on ewes, two cars of 101 lb. pea fed ewes selling at $9.80 and odd head from local territory at $9.85, new high prices here. Lambs also set a new high record for all previous time here today at $13.75. Receipts have been running fairly liberal, but packers have not had enough, and the market shows no signs of weakening. Fat yearlings sell at $12.00 or better, wethers $10.50, feeding lambs around $12.75.

TEACHING INDIANS IS THIS WOMAN'S HOBBY

Mrs. Molineux Declares Red Man Can Be Led, but Will Not Be Driven.

Salt Lake City.—To have mothered one or possibly two tiny lives through the strenuous days of early infancy is a task that most women consider plenty, but Mrs. Elizabeth Molineux, until recently a teacher in the United States Indian service, has the distinction of having mothered a whole tribe of Piute Indians, and claims the satisfaction of having raised them, old and young, from a condition bordering on the squalid state where they consider cleanliness next to godliness and, one and all, are heartily in favor of both.

Mrs. Molineux recently resigned her post as teacher on the Shivwits reservation in southern Utah and is in Salt Lake resting preparatory to going to Ketchikan, Alaska, to take charge of the Episcopal church's mission school there. She is a guest at the home of the Right Rev. Paul Jones, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Utah, while here.

Indians have become a hobby with this diminutive little Scotchwoman. She speaks their languages and in her eight years of service with the Indian department has been intimately associated with the trials and tribulations that beset poor Lo on his native heath. Mrs. Molineux is an ardent churchwoman and attributes her success in dealing with Indians to the fact that by blending religious teachings with the "three R's" she has dismissed distrust of her from the minds of her charges and has always been regarded by them more in the light of a friend than a teacher. She declared the Indian mind to be susceptible to teaching if properly approached, but adds that he can be led but will not be driven.

CHASING A COYOTE IN AUTO EXCITING SPORT

Hound, Sighting Game, Leaps Over Mud Shield and Lands Twenty Feet Ahead of Car.

Larned, Kan.—An exciting coyote chase in automobiles took place near Hanston. The party consisted of Bill Hann, John Hann, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Seaman and William Warring. They went in two cars and took three greyhounds in each car.

Mr. Warring says that auto polo is mild compared with the way those two cars chased across the prairie, ravines and bluffs after coyotes. He said that his speedometer registered forty miles one time when he dared to glance at it, and he was afraid to look again.

They were going along between twenty and thirty miles an hour at the time they started up the first coyote, and when the biggest hound in Mr. Warring's car sighted the wolf it leaped over the wind shield and hood and landed running twenty feet ahead of the car. The coyote was a big fellow, but the hounds finally brought him down, the big hound throwing him, while the others pinned him down.

While chasing the first coyote the other auto nearly ran over another one, which leaped up almost from under the wheels of the car. The men shot at it several times, wounding it, but because of the speed of the bounding car could get but poor aim. It finally ran into a hole and was fished out with a wire. Messrs. Hann and Seaman have killed many coyotes.

WIRELESS PLANT IN BED.

Annapolis Middie Receives Messages Through Springs.

Annapolis, Md.—That a series of bedsprings connected by wires makes a satisfactory condenser for a wireless station has been proved by Midshipman J. B. Dow of the fourth class at the Naval academy.

Dow has connected the springs of his own and his two roommates' beds and attached them to a receiver. He has been able to pick up messages sent from and to the Arlington station. He has found out that it is not necessary to open the windows of his room in Bancroft hall or even to remove the bedding.

It is stated that Dow's use of the bedsprings to receive radio messages may be of considerable practical value.

Waits Fifty Years For Father's Gift.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—It cost fifty years of waiting and a lawsuit against his stepmother, but John W. Baker of New Bloomfield recently received $525, turned over to his mother by his father in 1867. It was to be his on his father's death, but Mrs. Rebecca T. Baker, stepmother and administratrix, had withheld payment.

GIRL SUES DRUGGIST FOR LOSS OF HAIR

New York.—The efficacy of peroxide as a hair bleach was brought into question when Katie Gottdank, sixteen years old, asked $5,000 damages from Julius Kallish, incorporated, druggist. In trying to transform herself into a blond she lost part of her hair, and what she had left became brick red. She exhibited a shoe box full of hair. Miss Gottdank's grandfather, Carl Weisshar, a barber, was not allowed to qualify as an expert.
